

New Charter Technologies Recognized in the Channel Futures 2022 MSP 501 List for Second Consecutive Year

The MSP 501 is the world's first, largest and most comprehensive survey and ranking list in the IT channel

(Denver, Colo.) June 2022 – New Charter Technologies has been named one of the world's premier managed service providers in the prestigious 2022 Channel Futures MSP 501 rankings. In a record year of submissions, companies included on this list represent some of the most advanced and influential market leaders around the globe.

Every year, managed IT service providers compete for a chance to become an MSP 501er. Participating companies submit a survey that includes information about their service offerings, customer demographics, employees, recurring revenue data, and more. However, the MSP 501 List criteria go beyond the numbers and include an analysis of each competitor's operational efficiencies and business model alignment and success.

Channel Futures Senior News Editor Allison Francis makes it clear that to qualify for the MSP 501 List applicants must be holistically best-in-class. "This year's crop of 501ers aren't simply adding more customers, seats, and endpoints under management, they have realistic, actionable business plans aligned with their capabilities and their owners' own personal goals." Winners are recognized on the Channel Futures website and will be honored at the Channel Futures MSP Summit + Channel Partners Leadership Summit on Sept. 13-16, in Orlando, Florida.

The New Charter Technologies platform has a lot to celebrate this year. Not only was New Charter Technologies individually recognized in 2022, but more than 50% of the New Charter Technologies Operating Companies made the MSP 501 list this year including: Stronghold Data, ADNET Technologies, Apex Technology Management, CommTech Industries, Systems Solutions, ActiveCo Technology Management, I.T. Responsive, DCG Technical Solutions, and Greystone Technology.

New Charter Technologies and its Operating Company Partners share a common set of cultural values and business objectives. Each addition to the New Charter banner complements and strengthens the group, elevating best-in-class and creating a caliber of business that the industry hasn't yet seen.
